DAILY TRIBUNE.

Wednesday Morning, April 21, 1858.

Lecompton Again.

Mr. Boteler, of the Lecompton Conference Committee, has presented his new bill for the admission of Kansas. We have no information concerning it beyond that given yesterday. The Senate Committee have it under advisement.

The Democratic State Convention.

About one hundred Democrats of all shades left the city for Springfield yesterday, under charge of half a dozen newspaper reporters, to attend the State Convention. The delegations assemble at 10 o'clock this morning in the Representatives' Hall in the State House, and we shall soon know what their action is. The readers of the Tribune may look for full and early reports of all that transpires.

Loss Bit in St. Paul.

The vote was nearly all one way in St. Paul on the Five Million Loan Bill. There were 1,861 votes For, and only 183 Against it! 4,734 strikes one rather a large vote for St. Paul, as it would indicate a population of at least 25,000, which is 10,000 higher than is claimed for that place.

Minnesota and St. Anthony returned a majority of 1,933 for the Loan; Stillwater voted For Loan 280, Against 78; Red Wing 345 For, 38 Against. But Winona beats them all. She cast 1,181 For, and one vote Against; and next day ran the same sort of town who had the courage and independency to stand up for his opinion against that of the entire community. They should rather have honored him for his bravery. Hennepin County voted 2,113 For, to 218 Against; Shakopee 324 For, and 19 Against. But as it went all jog-headed it is not necessary to give any further details.

As we understand the matter, the bill provides that the Five Million Loan shall bear 6 per cent. interest, and is redeemable at the end of 10 years, at the pleasure of the State, or at the end of 25 years, if the State be not prepared to pay off the principal. We see nothing in regard to the rate on their face at which the bonds must be sold. The amount of sales is left indefinite. The money, when obtained, is to be divided between four Railroads—$1,250,000 to each road.

The State takes a first mortgage on the Roads for its security, and also a lien on 249 sections of the land granted to each Road, besides other stipulations in regard to the application of receipts.

It seems to us that these conditions will make the borrowing of the residue of the money for the completion of the roads rather difficult. The aid extended by the inchoate State will not build more than 40 miles of each road. Where the money will be raised on second mortgage bonds, to the amount of say twenty millions more, to extend them, is not clear to the comprehension of plain people; but deep, subtle financiers like the Press, may be able to tell without hesitation. It is suggested that the Press folks intend getting that No-kausis wild cat bank into operation, in order to lend the Minnesota corporate 6 per cent. bonds to assist them in building their lines. Timely aid of that sort might aid the completion of the works.

A Serious Democrat.—The pop-corn man who recently occupied a stand in the hall of the Post Office has received his quietus; he's head is off; he has been notified to vacate! It has been discovered that he differed from the President on the expediency and righteousness of the Lecompton Constitution. It is stated on the best of authority that the lackeys of his Highness James I. have been "shadowing" him for the past two weeks to catch some expression by which to raise a breeze between him and the President and get him ousted; and that they finally succeeded in their infernal design. Now it strikes us, a little less espionage and a little more straight forward fair thinking would have added dignity to this event. For instance: "Do you believe in the almighty nigger? Yes or no! Will you, from this date and henceforth, sell yourself, body and gizzard, to sing psalms to Lecompton in any particular metre? If so you are appointed public peanut and corn vender to his Majesty, in the Chicago Post Office. If not, off goes your head, sure pop."

New York.—Both branches of the Legislature of New York have passed a bill submitting the question to the people, in November, whether they will have a State Convention to revise their Constitution.

The Court of Appeals has sustained the constitutionality of the Port Warden law, passed by the Legislature last year, and which was declared by the Supreme Court unconstitutional; and in the case of the old police in the city of New York, who claim to retain their positions under the new law, the Court orders a re-argument of the cause, making no decision upon it.

CITY ITEMS.

Church of the Ascension.—The dedication services in the new Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Rev. Henry H. Morrell, Rector, will take place on Thursday evening next, the 22d inst., at half past seven o'clock. The church edifice is situated on Oak street, between Wells and Lasalle streets, in the North Division.

The Scientific Method.—The Tycoons (N. Y.) denied that "We understand that L. H. Bingham, of the city, and Charlie Morse, (every body knows Charlie, the partly ambulance on the Chicago & Rock Island,) have taken the Sherman House, in Chicago, and will soon open it as a first class hotel."

Heavy For Safeguard.—On Thursday last, Messrs. J. A. Smith & Co., hatters and furriers, in this city, shipped via Michigan Central Railroad direct to London, by way of New York city, a single box of fashionable beaver hats. The skins were taken up in sixty completely painted hats, and at the average value of fifty cents each, the whole shipment was no less than $3,000.

Sentenced.—Benjamin Franklin was brought before the Police Court yesterday upon a charge of selling Michael Ovens of $25 in gold. Ovens is also the owner, and not Franklin in a saloon where the crowd got drunk. Franklin pretended to be a gentleman and induced Ovens to go to bed, while the Grecian ran up stairs, robbed him. The accused was committed for trial in default of $500 bail.

Sunday Services this Afternoon.—Mr. Unger announces as excellent programme for his concert this afternoon, and we trust he may be greeted by a large audience. Mr. Unger richly deserves a most liberal support from the musical people of Chicago, for he spares no pains to give the best music of the best masters. No amateur contributes so much of himself and his time to entertain him to the support of good forms of music. For programme, see advertisement.

Illinois Central Railroad Excursion.—Fourteen cars, each car containing about eighty passengers, were sent over the St. Louis, Alton and Chicago R. R., by special train, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and they arrived at St. Louis in good season, in good condition. At St. Louis they took the ferry boats across to Jefferson City, and then by the Pacific Railroad to Tipton. About 100 passengers, we believe, were taken over the same Railroad last Monday, and about 150 more were conveyed yesterday. They have also transported about 70 car loads of cattle. Under the efficient management of Mr. Fleming, this road is doing a flourishing business.

The Execution of Albert Staub.

A LETTER FROM THE CRIMINAL.

THE CROWD, INCIDENTS, ETC.

By 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the day appointed for the execution of Albert Staub, for the murder of Peter Lonermann, a large crowd of persons had collected in the Court House Square, and the number rapidly increased until sixty or seventy thousand persons were present. A falling, but the crowd, attracted by a morbid curiosity, hemmed in the north end of the jail, and it was with difficulty that a large force of policemen could preserve order. The crowd was constantly moving hither and thither, jostling each other, and every one was inquiring to what place the execution would take place; but no one knew, save the Sheriff and one or two of his deputies.

The carriage, six in number, were ranged upon the circular drive in front of the building, and the Chicago Dragoons, Capt. Barker, were formed at the west gate, while the policemen kept the lines and walks clear from the crowd.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, the prisoner was brought from the jail and placed in a carriage. He was accompanied by Rev. Mr. Bausz, of the Methodist church; Mr. Tenbrook, the jailer, and Mr. Spencer, one of his counsel. As soon as the prisoner made his appearance, the crowd made a rush, each one trying to catch a glimpse of the doomed man, and it was nearly impossible for the officers to protect the carriage from the rabble. Staub seemed much excited by the scrutiny of those around him, and hung his head, tears rolling down his cheeks.

The other carriages were occupied by the Sheriff and his deputies, the County Physician and Coroner, newspaper reporters and sheriffs from other counties. As soon as the carriages reached the street, the dragoons formed in front and rear, and the procession proceeded to the place of execution, followed by thousands of men and boys who had stood for hours in a drenching rain, determined to gratify their depraved tastes, by witnessing the death of a fellow creature.

The gallows was erected on Reuben street, five or six blocks south of its intersection with Madison street, and despite the rain and knee-deep mud, the crowd followed the procession as best they could—here and there going across lots, and often wading through ponds of water nearly knee-deep.

At the Union Park Hotel, the procession was joined by the M. G. Cadets, Capt. Stryker, and the Shield's Guard, Capt. Kelley. Arriving at the gallows the military formed and kept a square space about the scaffold clear of the crowd. Those whose duties required them to be present, immediately took their places upon and near the scaffold, and in a few moments the prisoner was led from the carriage to the platform beneath the gallows. He was greatly agitated, weeping bitterly, and was scarcely able to walk, indeed he would have fallen but for his attendants. Although trembling violently he rallied somewhat and shook hands with his counsel, his spiritual advisers and the officers.

Rev. Mr. Bausz, of the Clark street M. E. Church, then offered up a most touching and eloquent prayer, during which the prisoner seemed to regain his composure.

After the prayer, Sheriff Wilson tied his deputies about the house, and were about to put on the white gown, when Staub, who, before having the jail, had stated he did not wish to speak to the crowd, requested permission to say a few words, which was of course granted. His address, which was almost constantly interrupted by his sobs and tears, occupying some five minutes.

Staub, in substance, said: "I wish to speak a few words to my German countrymen. You all see what the temptings of the devil have brought me to, and I wish you to be warned by my fate. Keep away from bad company, and let liquor alone. Do not covet the money of others, and do not let your wife for money lead you into crime. I implore you to go religious; go to church, and pray to God, for there is more rejoicing in heaven over one sinner who repents than ninety-nine that need no repentance. Be warned by me, and do not commit sin. Amen."

The gown was then put on, the black cap drawn over his face, the bolt withdrawn, and at thirty-five minutes past eleven o'clock, the soul of Albert Staub passed to its Creator.

So patiently was everything about the gallows arranged, that the prisoner's neck was instantly broken, and he scarcely struggled all. After the body had hung thirty minutes, Dr. Cheeny, the County Physician, ascended the ladder, and, after examining the corpse, said: "The body there hanging is that of the prisoner is now a lifeless corpse. The sentence of the Court has been by you fully and skillfully carried out." The body was then taken down, placed in a coffin, and deposited in the county wagon, to be taken to the cemetery for interment.

The scene upon the scaffold was a most affecting one, and during the progress of the execution, there was scarcely a dry eye among those upon and near the platform, and it required a strong effort on the part of the officers to retain sufficient composure to perform their unpleasant duties. During most of the time a drizzling rain fell, but the entire assemblage of between six and eight thousand persons, among whom were some three hundreds females, were no much shocked by the fearful scene being enacted before them to care for the rain. Whatever may be thought of the necessity of capital punishment, none who witnessed the execution of Albert Staub yesterday, could have failed to feel that such exhibitions are brutalizing, and have a tendency to create more crime than they prevent. If hanging is to be the punishment for murder, by all means let us imitate the action of older States and have our executions private.

Much has been said in relation to what the prisoner has done and said since his conviction, and many rumors, untrue and exaggerated, have been set afloat as to his belief in a God and a future state. From what transpired previous to last Monday evening, there was little hope that Staub had a realizing sense of the awful change through which, in a few hours, he was about to pass. His coarse remarks and careless jests had indicated a hal and hardened heart; but as the solemn hours of his last night on earth passed slowly away, his hardened heart and corrupted mind yielded to the promptings of the "still small voice," and Albert Staub, was humbled before his Creator. For the first time since the imprisonment, he knelt down in his cell and prayed long and fervently for forgiveness. He also read his Bible and a religious tract, and bitterly repented the crime for which he was to die.

As an evidence that he did not die a scoffing, unbelieving infidel, we translate the following letter, written by him in pencil, in his cell, and sent to the Staats Zeitung for publication:

JAIL, April 19th, 1858.

Dear German Fellow Citizens:

As my life has to come to such a sad end, still I feel so happy; for I can say: "My sins are now forgiven me, and although they can kill my body, they cannot kill my soul, for it lives on where there will be eternal rejoicing or lamenting.

In the prime of my life I am called from the earth; but what good has man here? Nothing but sorrow and trouble, therefore I say for a better home, where there will be nothing but love and joy and delight in the holy spirit. To all those who felt for me and labored for me and helped me, in this or that, I say my most heartfelt thanks. Also I ask a warning from me, how soon can be plunged so suddenly into misery, if we give heed to the devil; but still I can say rejoicing—I have found grace!

Farewell, farewell!
A hearty farewell.
ALBERT STAUB.

We have been able to collect but few facts relative to the life of Albert Staub. He was born in Thalwil, near Zurich, in Switzerland, and was about twenty-two years of age. His father died when he was four years of age and he was sent to his grandfather to be reared and educated. His mother married again soon after her husband's death. At twelve years of age he was sent to school, and at twelve years of age he was sent to school, and at twelve years of age he was sent to college. On leaving college he came time after to college. On leaving college he obtained a situation as an accountant in a commercial house in Zurich, and while there got into a quarrel and had his leg broken. He lost his situation, and about ten months ago came to this city. Very soon after his arrival here he obtained a situation as clerk-tender in a tavern in Hoboken, and thither went to work upon a farm near Blue Island, where he robbed his employers of several hundred dollars. This, he asserted, was his first offence against the laws and led to the crime which he has expiated with his life.

His statements in relation to the murder of Lonermann are conflicting. At one time he said he killed him to get his wages and money, and another time he stated that Lonermann and himself got into a political discussion, which led to a fight, and that Lonermann attempted to put him off the wagon, when he shot him. Neither of these statements may be true, and his real motive in committing the murder will probably never be known.

Staub had neither friends nor money, but his counsel, Messrs. Wilkinson & Spencer, did everything that could be done to save him from the gallows. Mr. Wilkinson visited Springfield, for the purpose of obtaining a commutation of his sentence to imprisonment for life, and yesterday morning telegraphed Gov. Bissell, inquiring if he "could do anything for Staub?" but the Governor refused to interfere.

The arrangements made by Sheriff Wilson for the execution were all that could be desired, and were well and quietly carried out, and much credit is due him for the orderly and proper discharge of what must have been a very painful duty.

Meeting of Vessel Agents and Owners.

The meeting was held at the Board of Trade Rooms at 9½ o'clock yesterday afternoon, pursuant to adjournment—Thos. Richmond, Esq., in the Chair.

The Committee appointed at the previous meeting made the following report, through its chairman, B. Robinson, Esq., as follows:

We, a Committee appointed at a meeting of owners, agents and masters of vessels and propellers, held at the Board of Trade Rooms, the 19th day of April, A. D. 1858, to report on some method of organization by which a concert of action can be maintained between such owners, agents and masters, as will enable them to exact back item time to time such rates of freight as it may be deemed advisable to charge for the mutual benefit of the owners of Lake craft as well as the owners of the property to be so transported, beg leave to make their report as follows: That, whereas, the large amount of grain now in store at the ports on Lake Michigan, and the large amount in the country to go forward, is much in excess of the several years past; and, whereas, the small amount of freight (amounting to almost nothing as compared with several years past) to be transported to market, freights from Ports on all the lower Lakes, it is not only unprofitable, but is a loss which the Lake craft are not able to bear, to transport property eastward, from Lake Michigan ports, at rates now which have been accepted for the last few days; and your Committee would, therefore, recommend the forming of an association for the protection of the owners of such Lake craft as well as the agents representing the same and those employed as masters, mates and engineers, by offering such a rate of freight as will remunerate the owners of the property for the transportation of the same, as, if vessels and propellers cannot get remunerative prices of freight, it would necessarily throw a large number of men out of employ who are looking to the success of such property for their support, and others to them, and it is also a well ascertained fact that the amount of money invested in such Lake craft will not fall much short of eight millions of dollars, and this is a resource to retain for the interest, as, if Lake craft cannot carry his property to a market at a loss to such carriers, as has been done for one or two years past? And your Committee would further recommend that such an association be organized, with a President, Secretary and Treasurer, also with a Constitution and By-Laws to govern the same, to be signed by the members of such association; and upon such organization, your Committee would recommend that a circular be printed, and that each member of the association send to the owners of such Lake craft, asking their co-operation in this matter; and your Committee would also recommend that a committee of five be appointed to meet daily, and have power to remain in session for the same, for the purpose of calling upon the Committee of Arbitration, and it is their duty to see and confer with the masters of vessels who are not represented by any local agent, and such committee shall so remain until the organization is fully organized. That the rates established by the present prices of freight, would not recommend any exhorbitant prices of freight to be charged, but for the present, and until a change is decided upon by the Committee specified of freights, that the rates shall be as follows, viz:

	Per bu.		Per bu.
Wheat to Buffalo	1c	Wheat to Oswego	1½c
Corn "	1c	Corn "	1½c
Wheat to Tonawanda	1½c
Corn "	1½c

To Kingston 2c; to Cape Vincent 2½c; to Ogdensburg 2c; to Sackets Harbor 2½c; to Oswego rates for wheat and corn.

To Montreal 3c; to Quebec 3½c over Oswego rates on wheat and corn.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. VAN INWAGEN
C. W. ROCKEN
E. A. BACON
R. ROBINSON,
Committee.

The Report was accepted.

Solomon Sturges, Esq., objected to the adoption of the report from the committee, and offered the following as an amendment:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Association, all combinations to influence the prices of grain, freights of vessels, or prices of labor, are contrary to sound moral law, if not the laws of God; and that we will not sustain such.

Mr. Sturges made some lengthy remarks in support of his views, but his amendment was voted down, and the original report adopted unanimously.

A motion was then made and carried that an association be formed for the protection of vessel interests, that daily meetings be held before the hour of 'Change, at the Board of Trade Rooms; and that officers be elected to serve till a Constitution and By-Laws could be adopted. It was proposed to call the new organization "A Board of Vessel Protection."

In accordance with this resolution, an election was had, when were, with the following result:

A. VAN INWAGEN, President.
C. W. ROCKEN, Vice-President.
E. A. BACON, Secretary.
R. ROBINSON, Treasurer.

Mr. Van Inwagen having taken the chair, the meeting was called to order under the new organization.

A resolution was then adopted for the appointment of a committee to draft a Constitution and By-Laws for the guidance of the Board.

The chair appointed the following gentlemen as said committee:

J. C. Walker, W. T. Mather, R. A. Bruce, Geo. M. Wright, E. Robinson.

The meeting then adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning, at the Board of Trade Rooms, when it is intended to establish rates of grain freights from this port, subject to such daily changes as may be deemed advisable.

Chicago School Fund.

We learn from the School Superintendent's Report that the Chicago School Fund amounts to nearly one million of dollars, as follows:

The amount of real estate now belonging to the Chicago School Fund is as follows, viz:

Sixteenth section	$402,000
Amount of real estate outside of the city	40,000
Money loaned, principal	55,000
Whole amount of school fund	$497,000

The income of the School Fund for the year ending Feb. 1, 1858, including also the dividends of the interest on the State Fund, was as follows:

Interest on $42,000 loaned	$2,520
Interest on $55,000 loaned	3,300
Rents	1,324
Amount received from State Treasurer	28,000
Amount	$35,144

APPORTIONMENT FOR THE SCHOLASTIC YEAR OF SCHOOLS.

The whole expense of supporting the Public Schools during the year ending February 1, 1858, may be reduced to three general heads:

1. Salaries of Trustees, School Agent and Superintendent, paid by the school fund.....$20,079
2. Incidentals, including fuel, repairs, care of lots, office expenses, printing, &c.....2,000
3. Rent of school houses, including interest on building and the building of the city, estimated.....17,000
Amount.....$39,079

This amount, divided by 10,788, the whole number of pupils instructed, shows the expense for each scholar to have been $3 62.

The following is the comparative cost of instruction in several different cities, reduced to the basis here adopted for Chicago:

Boston	$13 40
Cincinnati	11 11
Louisville	7 00
Cleveland	6 00
Chicago	3 62
New York	3 00
Buffalo	2 50
St. Louis	2 00

This list embraces the principal cities from which reliable information could be obtained, and it will be seen that while the School system in Chicago is inferior to none other, the expense per pupil is less than in any of them. This speaks well for the economical management of our schools.

Boston Papers by the Africa, &c. &c.—

The London Illustrated News, Illustrated Times, Punch, Bell's Life, Lloyds Weekly, Weekly and Daily Times, Weekly Dispatch, London Journal, and Family Herald, have been received by Messrs. McNally & Co., 79 Dearborn street, a few doors north of the Post Office. They have Godey, Graham, Peterson, Arthurs, Emerson and Putnam Magazines for May. Also, Nick Nax and Yankee Notions. They expect Harper for May to-day. Bolton Pictorial, Flag of our Union, Novelett and N. Y. Ledger, for this week, are on their counters.

Lutheran.—

The Rev. Mr. Schmick, the Rector of Trinity Church, announced last Sunday, from his pulpit, that the collections taken on Easter Sunday amounted to $1,227. In addition to this, there was presented a beautiful set of communion plate, by a member of the congregation. We are glad to learn that the religious interest still continues at this parish. Seven adults were baptized on Sunday evening.
